Update: Florida's 2016 Hotel Forecast

Old-Miami Made New

Reservations are now open for The Langford Hotel in Downtown Miami, opening this March. The 126-guestroom property is housed in the former location of the Miami National Bank, featuring Beaux-Arts architecture, a reflection of its old-Miami roots, and artwork created by local artists, an embracing of the present day forward-looking style of Miami. In the Sky Lobby, guests can grab a coffee, or a drink, at the coffee bar and lounge before or after checking in. Next to the lobby is apetite bibliotheque stocked with a curated selection of books and magazines on various subjects. At the onsite PB Station

Restaurant, a chef-driven concept by the PubblellyBoys partners, chef Guillermo Concha puts a unique twist on classic small plates dishes featuring local and seasonally sourced produce, seafood and proteins. At PB Station's rooftop bar and lounge, the Pawn Broker, guests can sip on New American-craft spirits while looking out over the city streets below. In honor of the announcement, The Langford Hotel is offering guests a special introductory room rate starting at $219, including continental breakfast for two.
